GROSS INJUSTICE TO GOV. MOREHEAD .- A few days ago some of the inconsiderate citizens of Mercer county assembled at Harrodsburg and gave vent to their anger by constituting a disgraceful mob and hanging in effigy the Governor of this commonwealth. The offense for which an excellent chief magistrate was made subject to this puerile indignity was, that he had commuted from death to confinement in the penitentiary for life the punishment of Henry, a slave, who was condemned to be hung at the last term of the Mercer circuit court for striking one Merrit Cunningham with intent to kill.

A petition is on file setting forth that Henry had been once before on trial, and that the jury could uot agree-that Cunningham is living, in good health, and not maimed. The record of his conviction accompanied the petition, showing that the jury who found him guilty retired to consult about their verdict on Tuesday, April 14th, 1857, and did not render the verdict until Thursday, the 16th instant. The record also contains various affidavits for a new trial, which, in the opinion of all reasonable lawyers, would have justified the court in granting it. The petition asking for a commutation is signed by some of the most respectable citizens of Mercer county, well known to the Governor and in whom he had full

Judge Kavanaugh, who precided at the trial, in a letter to the Governor, says: "At the time of the conviction, I was and am still of the opinion that it would not be an improper exercise of executive had been given her for "pin-money," clemency to commute the punishment of death to a life confi ent, and determined at the time to as much."

Under these circumstances, seeing that the re clemency, and that the Governor's course was in ac- five times without effect, one of the balls grazed the cordance with the wishes of the Judge and the peothat justice and magnanimity that ever characterises bis official and private conduct. The people of Merwho have foolishly insulted the law and its chief executive, will, we doubt not, soon repent of their

A REWARD FOR TIDINESS .- Prof. Holvoke, the Principal of the Female High School, is a gentleman blessed with happy conception. In place of exciting his pupals to rivalry by holding out the tempting bait of a prize for proficiency in studies, and thus superinducing unpleasant jealousy, he very properly incited them by precept and example to tabor diligently in their educational pursuits. He has succeeded most admirably, and we suppose that the most thorough class of young ladies in the city are to be found in the High School organized and sustained by the public funds.

The Professor, with an eye to the future domestic usefulness of his pupils, stated a few days since that as the session was just closing, he intended presenting a beautiful gold thimble to that young lady who had preserved her books with the greatest neatness. A number of married ladies were appointed judges, and yesterday were to decide as to who should receive the much coveted and very appropriate re ward. They are to report Monday.

THE BOSTON SPIRITUAL EXPERIMENTS .- The professed Spiritualists of Boston do not make much headway into the convictions of the Harvard College Faculty. Mr. Squires, a professional medium of that city, moved a table by his mysterious power, with his legs and one arm tied, the room being darkened, in the presence of a company of which Professors Felton and Eustis were members. Professo Eustis then did the same feat with a single arm quite to the astonishment of the medium, and rather to the comfort of the "jugglery" theorists. Dr. Gardner and Professor Felton are unable to agree as the details of the proposed exhibition of the wonderful power, in behalf of science and the $500 offerred by the Professor; and that the experiment is, therefore, likely to be abandoned.

The river was still at a stand yesterday with 6 feet 5 inches wather in the canal.

During the high water much mud accumulated in the canal, but the efficient superintendent, Captain Lockhart, has the mud boat constantly at work removing it.

The Baltic .- One of the most elegant and safest boats on the river is the Baltic. She leaves for New Orleans this evening. Capt. Meekin is a kind and efficient officer, and Mr. George P. Jouett, the clerk, is an accomplished gentleman. The Baltic, in addition to her splendid accommodations, has sumptuous fare.

The Eclipse.—This steamer will be up early this norning and return to New Orleans at noon to-day. The Jacob Strader is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day, the Emma Dean is the Carrollton packet, and the Dove is the Kentucky river packet. Mr. Pendleton has our thanks for a copy of the manifest.

New Ferryboat.-We have noticed in our city within the last few days our former enterprising young townsman, Mr. P. Thomas, now of Crescent, Minnesota. He is here to procure a ferryboat. He gives a glowing account of the prospects of La Crescent and the surrounding country. The town s situated on the upper Mississippi, opposite the vilage of La Crosse, in Wisconsin.

The rapid rise of the Allegheny on Tuesday night caused great loss to the lumbermen. The Pittsburg Gazette estimates the loss in lumber at $40,000.

MEXICO.-The elections in Mexico, according to the last advices, were progressing favorably for life to the amount of $40,000. Comonfort. His final success, which is thought to be nearly certain, will prove a very cheering indication for the Mexican people. It will attest the complete triumph of the State over the Church, and, if worthily improved, lay the foundation of permanent national advancement. And most certainly if Comonfort does not improve success worthily no other Mexican statesman and leader is ever likely to do so. The possibility of the regeneration of the people of Mexico seems to be chiefly centered in him. We shall look to his future movenents with deep interest.

THE LUXURY OF THE SEASON.—Ice is crowned king of the season's luxuries. His sceptre of crystal is a magician's wand, converting all that is insipid, night. and distasteful and prosaic into the most choice and delectable of drink and food. What were our much vaunted potations and edibles but for this delightful refrigerant. As the summer solstice waxes we should all become liquid masses of simmering flesh and blood, did not ice preserve necessary equilibrium in our temperament. And this luxury and this necessity is as cheap as it is healthful when purchased

Col. George Hancock has been chosen by the Executive Committee of the United States Agricultural Society as one of the judges upon Harvesting Implements for the summer trial, which is to take place at Syracuse, New York, about the 20th of next month. Col. Hancock is a most excellent selection for this duty. The meeting will be a very interesting one to the whole agricultural community. A large number of implements have already been entered for competition in this trial.

The wife of a respectable tradesman in Brooklyn, occupying a high social position, was brought before a police magistrate last Tuesday and fined $20, for stealing goods from a large dry-goods store on Fulton street. The husband is in easy circumstances, and, it is said, provides liberally for his family, and what should prompt this strange course on the part of his wife is a mystery. When arrested, the woman had $40 in her portemonnaie, which

NEW JAIL IN NEW ALBANY .- The Board of County Commissioners have adopted a plan (drawn by J. P. Smith), for a new jail in New Albany. The estimated cost of the new building is $16,000. It will occupy the site of the present jail, fronting 41 feet on Spring street, and running back 91 feet on

During the past month thirty or forty new buildings have been contracted for at Atchison Land speculations are rife, and the mania affects everybody. The most exorbitant prices are de manded for lands that a few months ago were offered at the minimum Congress rates. Magnificent cities are laid out on paper and heralded by a great flourish of trumpets, but they quickly relapse into insignificance after the land is sold.

EXTENSIVE AND EXPERT ROBBERY-$20,000 in Gold Stolen .- Some two weeks ago, a Cuban gentle man arrived in New York city from New Orleans bringing with him $20,000 in gold dubloons, and also $300 in silver. He put up at a public house, 43 Walker street, where he kept his money in a common trunk. Early on Monday, during the temporary absence of the Cuban from the hotel, his room was entered by some parties whom, it is supposed had "piped" from the south, the lock forced from the trunk, the money secured and carried off. The robbery was not discovered for several hours afterward.

Joseph S. Taylor, the Street Commissioner of New York, died on Wednesday. He was a zealous and active politician, and a leader in the American party. There will be no trade to require a large movement, and when the goods are once in warehouse there is no iadusement to withdraw them until they are wanted for consumption.

The Glasgow (Barren county) Journal says: The army worm is destroying many of the mead-ows in this county. We also hear that they are des-troying much of the wheat and corn in some localities.

Mark Dougherty, one of the most extensive far-mers in this county, informed us on Tuesday that these pestilential insects had destroyed his entire wheat crop. We believe that every meadow in this neighborhood is infested with them, to a greater or less extent, and consequently hogs to destroy then have been very much in demand for several days.

WALKER TO BE ARRESTED .- A dispatch to the New York Tribune from Washington says:

The story of the intended visit of Gen. Fillibuster Walker to this city is not credited here, as a writ awaits him from the United States Circuit Court of New York, at the suit of Com. Vanderbilt, for plundering the Transit Company.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.— Desperate Fight with Robbers.—The San Antonio (Texas) papers of the 30th instant are filled with the most exciting accounts of a recent dreadful encounter with a band of ruffians in that city, during which five persons were killed and one wounded. As our five persons were killed and one wounded. As our readers well know, there has been, for a long time past, a desperate gang of thieves, robbers, and house breakers hanging about San Antonio, whose repeated villainies we have almost weekly recorded. On the night of the 29th, it seems, a horrible murder was mitted but a few miles below the town. committed but a few miles below the town. The wife of one Mr. Garza was killed in her own house by some seven or eight assassins, and the house then robbed of money and valuables. A reward of $500 was offered next morning for the apprehension of the murderers, and Sheriff Henry, with a posse, hastened to the place of the bloody scene. The Texan, of the 30th vil. adds:

the 30th ult., adds:
About 12 o'clock a gang of some dozen desperadoes had collected in the city on the west side of the river, many of them in a darkened room, as a sort of resort for the moment. Here the shooting commenced between the desperadoes and some three or four citizens. Fielstrop killed one of the despera-does, and was shot through the head by another.

At this awful juncture, Jim Taylor, than whom a braver man never lived, gave orders to some three of his csmrades to follow him—and at the same moment he broke through the window into the darkened room. As he entered, Bill Hart, a notorious character, shot him through the breast, and at the same moment a gun was pointed at Bill Heart by another person, when Taylor exclaimed, "he has shot me, let me shoot him," and fired. Both fell. Citizens commenced rushing in well armed, as well as many of the desperadoes, and the shooting becan many of the desperadoes, and the shooting became general. The gang of rowdies broke from the room by a back door; many of them who came up after the melee commenced, immediately fied—finding that they were coming to close quarters.

By this time at least some three hundred citizens had collected all well armed for it was well known

Many of them came in sight, but very wisely withdrew. Five persons were killed, two citizens and three of the desperadoes. Taylor may recover.

At this stage of afairs, the city authorities commanded the multitude to disperse, and they immediate

DECISIONS OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

SUMME TERM, 1887.

Reported for the Louisville Journal by John M. Harlan, Attorney at Law, Frankfort, Ky.

Easley's Executor vs Easley. From Franklin Circuit.

This action was brought by the executor against the widow of she testator for several slaves which it was alleged she unlawfully detained from the plaintif.

After the evidence on behalf of the executor was concluded, the inferior Court gave a peremptory instruction to the jury to find for the defendant.

The principal questions in the cases were as follows:

the jury to find for the defendant.

The principal questions in the case were as follows:

The principal questions in the case were as follows:

The testator's will contained a specific devise of the slaves, and it was, therefore, insisted on behalf of the spellee that the tille to them passed to the devisees, and not to the executor, and that the latter could not maintain a suit for them.

2. The appellee further insisted that the action could not be maintained against her, because the slaves sued for were not in her possession at the commencement of the suit, because her previous possession of them was not adverse to plaintiff's right, and because the possession of them had not been demanded by the plaintiff.

3. The bill of exceptions does not state that the evidence which it contains is all that was given on the trial, and appellee, therefore, contended that this Court cannot decide that the Court below erred in its peremptory instructions to the jury.

Judge Simpson delivered the existing the formation of the court below erred in its peremptory instructions which it contains is all that was given on the trial, and appellee, therefore, contended that this Court cannot decide that the Court below erred in its peremptory instructions to the jury.

Judge Simpson delivered the opinion of the Court.

Held.—As to the first question. The will having been executed and the testator having died since the Revised Statutes went into effect, the legal effect of the provisions of the will must be regulated by them. Since they took effect, slaves are personal estate, and upon the death of the testator, pass, like any other personal estate, to his executor, notwithstanding they are specifically devised. The personal representative may sue for their recovery, although he is expressly prohibited from selling them, unless, for the want of other assets, a sale of them he necessary to pay the debts of the decedent. (Rev. Stat., chap. 93, art., lese. 3 and 4, p672.) If, then, the slaves sued for belonged to the testator, his executor can maintain this action for their recovery.

As to the second question. The testimony conduced to show that the slaves remained in her possession after the death of the testator. An action for slaves or other personal property may be maintained against a person who has held the possession, although he did not have it at the commencement of the suit. Bush's Rep's vs White &c. 3, Mon. 103; Pool vs Adkinson &c. 1, Dana 118. And no demand previous to the commencement of the action need be proved. Jones vs Henry & Boggs 3, Litt. 50. Even where the defendant is a ballee, and has improperly permitted a third party to take possession of the property before suit brought, the action can be maintained. Bucker vs Hamilton 3, Dana 44. Appellee therefore can be sued for the slaves even though she may not have had them in her possession at the commencement of the suit.

As to the third question. As a general rule, a judgment cannot be reversed, unless all the evidence given upon the trial is presented in the bill of exceptions. 2 Litt. 12: 2 Mar. 222; 1 Dana 14. In this

How a Sun-Stroke Affects Man .- The general impression is that death by sun-stroke is very painful, but the contrary would seem to be the fact, judging from the following account of the effect of such a visitation, given by General Sir C. J. Napier. He experienced an attack while in Scinde, where the thermometer, according to the General himself, was of as much use to him as it would have been to a boiling lobster, and wrote as follows to one of his daughters: "The sun-stroke was a staggerer; yet my hope is to die by one, for never can death come in an easier shape. I was just deadly sleepy: it was deadly had I been left alone; but the only feeling of the transition would have been a tiredness, like that experienced at being suddenly waked up before time. This was to a degree almost to be called painful, then came a pleasant drowsiness, with anger that the doctors would not let me sleep. Were it not for others, would that my horn had then been sounded: so easy, so delightful, I may say, was the approach of death." This resembles the accounts that have been given by men who have been saved from freezing to-death, after having got far down into the dark valley; so that the excess of heat and the excess of cold produce precisely the same effect.

STEAMBOATS ON THE DANUBE. - The Christian Advocate and Journal, of this week, has an interesting letter from Hungary, written by Mr. H. Winter, an American ship-builder, who is building boats on the Danube, for the Danube Navigation Company. This company have about $17,000,000 invested. They have 96 side-wheel steamers, 19 propellers, 450 barges, and 150 landing bridge boats and coal tenders. All the steamers and barges are built of iron. The writer says: "The two boats which I now have on hand are getting along very well. The engines are on the usual Hudson river boat principle, with walking beam. These boats were modeled by the late Mr. George Steers. The water lines are the same as those of the John Nelson, of New York. These boats will cost about $112,000 each."

ILLNESS OF GEN. WALBACH .- The veteran Gen. Walbach, Col. 4th Artillery, lies dangerously ill, with no hope of recovery. Thus, probably, will pass away, in a few hours, one of the brightest ornaments of the army. Pity it is that we have so few such men left. Gen. Walbach is in his ninetyfirst year, and has seen service in Europe and America, extending over three quarters of a century. He served under Louis XVI, and often had the Dauphin on his knee.

THOMAS BABBINGTON MACAULAY. - The follow ing portrait and sketch of the great essayist and historian is farnished by Mr. Reah, the London correspondent of the Iverness:

There is a common pedestrian of London streets, well known to all who are acquainted with their notabilities. He is a short, stout, sturdy, energetic man. He has a big, round face, and large, staring and very bright eyes. His hair is cut short, and his hat flung back on the crown of his head. His gait is firm and decided, with a little touch of pomposi-

He is ever provided with an umbrella, which he swings and flourishes and batters on the povement with mighty thumps. He seems generally absorbed in exciting and impulsive thoughts, the traces of which he takes no pains to conceal. His face works, his lips move and mutter, and his eyes gleam and flash. Squat as is his figure, and not particularly fine the featurest, there is an unmistakable air of control works. fine the features, there is an unmistakable air of mental power and energy, approaching to grandeur, about the man. He is evidently under the influence of the strong excitement of fiery thought. People gaze curiously at him, and stop to stare when he has passed. But he heeds no one; seems, indeed, to have utterly forgotten that he is not alone in his privacy, and pushes on, unwitting of the many who stare, and smile, and look with curiosity and regard upon Thomas Babbington Macaulay.

stare, and smile, and look with curiosity and regard upon Thomas Babbington Macaulay.

Occasionally, however, the historian and the poet gives still freer vent to the mental impulses which appear to be continually working within him. A friend of mine lately recognized him dining in the coffee-room of the Trafalgar Hotel, at Greenwich—a fashionable white bait house, which, it appears, he frequently patronizes. He was alone, as he generally is, and the attention of more than one of the company was attracted by his peculiar muttering and fidgetyness, and by the mute gestures with which he ever and anon illustrated his mental dreaming. All at once—it must have been toward the climax of the verse or prose which he was working up in his mind verse or prose which he was working up in his mind— Mr. Macaulay seized a massive decanter, held it a moment suspended in the air, and then dashed it the crystal flew about in fragments, while the numer-ous party dining round instinctively started up at the curious iconoclast. Not a whit put out, how-ever, Mr. Macaulay, who was well known to the waiters, called loudly for his bill to be made out at the bar, and then pulling, with a couple of jerks, his hat and his umbrella from the stand, clapped the one carelessly on his head, and strode out flourishing the

A LUCKY FELLOW. - The life of Miss Bronte. author of Jane Eyre, just published is not only a readable book, but it has caught both the secret of her character and the experiences from which she drew her illustrations. Think of the Flemish weaver in "Shirley" and then read this:

A man that Miss Bronte knew who was a small manufacturer, had engaged in many local specula-tions, which had always turned out well, and theretions, which had always turned out well, and thereby rendered him a person of some wealth. He was rather past middle age, when he bethought him of insuring his life; and he had only just taken out his policy when he fell ill of an acute disease, which was certain to end fatally in a very few days. The doctor, half hesitatingly, revealed to him his hopeless state. "By jingo!" cried he, rousing up at once into the old energy, "I shall do the insurance company! I was always a lucky fellow?"

HAY CAPS .- Some thousands of tuns of hay might be saved and much hard work and vexation prevented, if all the farmers would provide themprevented, if all the farmers would provide them-selves with hay caps before commencing their hay-ing. Now is the time to provide them, and nothing can be more simple. All that is wanted is as many pieces of cotton sheeting, two yards square, as you will be likely to have cocks of hay at any one time, liable to be aught in a shower. The corners of the cloth should have loops to pin them to the hay by long wooden pins made of hazle bush or any other smooth sticks, which are preferred to stones in the corners.

As to the usefulness, profitableness, and conveniand convenience of hay caps, there is now no longer any room for dispute—the thing has been proved by thousands—proved that no farmer in America can afford to do without hay caps; because they will generally pay for their cost every year, and some seasons those who have used them assert that they have those who have used them assert paid their cost more than twice over.

Two Women Yoked to a Plow.—During last week a very unusual sight attracted the attention of the railway passengers while the trains were passing through Bishopton of Moss. It was that of two females yoked to a plow, which was guided by an ungallant male, who held the stilts. The only way of accounting for this eccentric proceeding is the suggestion that the land, which is newly reclaimed, is not light to admit of horses being smployed.

THE ADVANCED PRICE OF TEAS .- The total export from China of teas to the United States for the period between the 1st of July, 1856, and the 8th of March, 1857, shows a falling off of 16,833,178 lbs on the exports of the year ending 30th June, 1856, with no probability of the exports being largely augmented for the period between the 8th of March (the date of the last trade circular) and the 30th of June next. In fact it is said to be safe to estimate the additional export of black teas for that period at not over 500,000 lbs, and of greens at certainly not exceeding 3,000,000 lbs. The New York Post

In this state of the supply, which must at least be ever twelve million pounds short at the end of the over twelve million pounds short at the end of the season, consumers as well as dealers acknowledge a higher standard of value for the fragrant herb. The advance in black teas, Oolongs, since last December has been fifteen cents per pound; and Young Hyson teas, of low and medium grades, have experienced an advance of one hundred per cent. over last sea an advance of one hundred per cent. over last sea son's closing prices.

A few "lines" of Young Hyson, embracing about four hundred packages, which were sold at auction in this city last November, at four cents per pound, have been resold by the purchaser at twenty-five cents. One of the dealers on Front street has already cleared between $100,000 and $200,000 by his operations in tea during the present season.

It will thus be seen that the strong and rapid advance in the tea market has been the result of a short vance in the tea market has been the result of a short supply and active demand; but when it is consider-ed that we may hear at any moment of the entire suspension of shipment at Shanghae, and, in fact, that as soon as a sufficient force from England arrives at the seat of war, all five ports of entry in China will probably be placed under strict blockade, it would not be surprising to see teas at a much higher figure than they have yet attained.

"RAG AND BONE-PICKERS' PARADISE."-In the rear of Nos. 88 and 90 Sheriff street, in the Eleventh Ward, is located "Rag-pickers' Paradise." It is so named from the fact that hundreds of rag and bonepickers reside, assort, and sell their stock in trade at that point. Formerly this place, and numerous at that point. Formerly this place, and numerous others in this ward, were greater nuisances than they are at the present time. Parties doing business at these places have, during the past year, been under the supervision of Health Warden Green. By dint of persevering daily efforts, he has partially succeeded in educating them in the matter of clean-liness. Much yet remains to be done. The entrance to "Rag-pickers' Paradise" is from Sheriff street when you at once approach a block of dilapidated cottage buildings with narrow balconies, in which are hung large quantities of cast-off garments, rags, &c., in the process of drying.

This block is occupied by pickers both male and

This block is occupied by pickers both mare and female. As you pass you are saluted at once on entering by a regment of dogs, and you may regard yourself fortunate if you escape a bite. At least fifty or sixty dogs are kenneled within the yards and houses. Some of them have evidently in their day done service, harnessed to the rag carts in the transportation of the sickening nuisances in the shape of portation of the sickening nuisances in the thansperof decayed vegetables, damaged meat, bones, bread, cheese, and numerous other obnoxious sundries, which are scattered promiscuously in the yard, and emit a stench almost unendurable by mortal man, who has never educated his nasal organs to relish such a vile stink for the sake of hording up a few hundred dellars.

It is midday. You enter the rooms occupied by the pickers. Their rags and bones are mainly assorted there. In barrels, boxes, baskets, and pans, on the table, under the table, in chairs, and every corner of the room, may be seen the most disgusting collection of matter gathered and garnered, awair-ing the arrival of wholesale merchants with their two-horse wagons, to whom they are about to sell the sickening trash. You hasten to the street. The wagons are in waiting. The accumulated nastiness s moving from the yards. Progress is being made is moving from the yards. Progress is being made in transferring barrels, boxes, and tubs from the yard. Municipal corruption corrupted! Whew! what a smell! At least a dozen carts are being loaded in the street, and this, too, at the business hour of the day, 1 o'clock P. M. Well would it be if this was but once in a lifetime. It is a regular daily transaction yet strange to say respectable daily transaction, yet, strange to say, respectable families reside and do business in that neighborhood and vicinity. These carts frequently remain in the ramines reside and do business in the same and vicinity. These carts frequently remain in the streets for three or four hours, waiting for their daily customers who may have strolled too far away from Paradise with their heavy burdens to return in due time.—N. ROBINSON CRUSOE A CANAL CAPTAIN -- A some ROBINSON CRUSOE A CANAL CAPTAIN.—A somewhat novel craft came down the canal on Saturday afternoon and tied up at the dock. It was a scowbuilt boat about fifteen feet long and three feet wide; but the novelty consisted in the peculiar motive power, it being towed by dogs. The boat was accompanied by but one man, a cripple from infancy, having no use of his limbs below his knees. He manages to hobble about slowly by walking on his knees upon which he wore something similar to shoes. He is from Chicago, and says he is going to New York for medical treatment. York for medical treatment.

His dogs, of which he has six, large and powerful animals, are trained to perfection, and understand and obey his word of command as well as a human being could. They tow his boat along at the rate of four miles an hour, he from the boat giving the directions. When they meet a boat they lay down close and let the tow-line pass over them and thus take the inside. He has a wagon on board for overland journeys. His boat, an open one, by a canvas covering, supported on posts, is converted into a sa-loon which he and his dogs, together with a tame raccoon, use for parlor, dining-room, and bed-room, raccoon, use for parior, diffing-room, and bed-room, all together, on terms of equality and good will. He carries four loaded pistols to protect his dogs from attack. After procuring a stock of provisions for himself and companions, he anchored his boat a little way from the shore and attracted the attention and excited the curiosity of passers-by who crowded around to solve the mystery. This happy family around to solve the mystery. This happy family reminds one forcibly of their old friend Robinson Crusoe, as being on a pleasant voyage down the Eric canal. He pursued his travels early the next morning.—Lockport Courier.

OPPOSED TO THE DECALOGUE. -The London Advertiser states a fact which shows that men occupying prominent positions are not above the need of most elementary Sunday school instruction. says that a candidate for Parliament to the recent on, in the course of an electioneering speech, asked: "What do you think of the Decalogue?" was asked: Confounded by the inquiry, he turned to a friend and asked, in a whisper, "what does that mean?" The friend, whose acquaintance with divinity was on a par with his own, replied by suggesting that it probably meant flogging in the army. Whereupon the candidate declared: "I entirely disapprove of the Decalogue, and will never rest till I see it abolished." The gentleman was elected, and is now a member of the new Parliament. The Advertiser adds: "We plage ourselves for the performances." We pledge ourselves for the perfect accuracy of

Our Birds .- Birds in Galveston are to be counted Our Birds.—Birds in Galveston are to be counted by thousands. Time was when none were to be seen. With man came the blessings and beauties that adorn and cheer his home. Mocking birds are numerous; at daylight the whole city is ringing with their songs, and late at night their thrilling notes break sweetly and strangely upon the dark stillness. Among others, large numbers of little yellow-breasted birds, said to be a species of the Canary, build their nests in the China trees around the dwellings. What a pity that we have no city laws against the destruction of these beautiful ernaments of our homes, provided by Providence.

An Immense Steam Engine.—A correspondent who has been visiting the iron and coal regions of Pennsylvania writes of an immense steam engine at Swanton, which is used simply to create a draft for the iron furnaces. It is of 1,700 horse power, and fills a good-sized three-story brick building. The writer says it is the most magnificent steam engine in the world, and that a mate of like dimensions is now building.—Boston Traveler.

"Well, neighbor, what's the most Christian news this morning?" said a gentleman to his friend. "I have just bought a barrel of flour for a poor wo-man." Just like you! Who is it that you have made happy by your charty time?" "My wife!"

By an almost unanimous vote, the Baptist Association of Virginia, on the 8th inst., resolved to withdraw their countenance and support from the American Tract Society.

THE NOTABLE J., ALIAS THE REV. G. GORDEN.

This honest, high-toned preacher of religion, in the Journal of this morning, falsely charges that I wrote an "anonymous" account of a speech made by the Rev. W. W. Everts, and that that gentleman had complained of it. There is not the shadow of truth in his allegation respecting myself, nor is there any reason for supposing there is any in the statement relative to the Rev. Mr. Everts. I made no anonymous notice of the speech of Mr. Everts, nor has he ever made any complaint to me, nor, as I have reason to believe, to any one else, of any act of mine in regard to it. If the Rev. G. Gorden would apprentice himself to the art of learning to tell the truth he might improve his prospects for this world and for the world to come. He shall hear from me again, and he may as well prepare himself for rendering an account of his stewardship.

MARY ANN'S WEDDING-As Related by Mrs. Jones.—"We were all preparing," said Mrs. Jones, "to go to the wedding. I was going, father was going, the gals were going, and we were going to take the baby; but come to dress the baby, I could not find the baby's shirt. I'd laid a clean one out of one of the drawers on purpose. I know'd jist where I had put it; but come to look for't 'twas gone."

"For mercy's sake!" says I, "gals," says I, "has any on you seen the baby's shirt?"
"Of course, none of 'em had seen it; and I looked, and looked, and looked, and when the seen thing in all notices." said I, "here I had the shirt in my hand not mor said I, "here I had the shirt in my hand not more than ten minutes ago, and now it's gone, and nobody can tell where. I never see'd the beat. "Gals, says I, 'do look around, can't ye?' But fretting wouldn't find it, so I gave it up and went to the bureau, and finished up another shirt, and put it onto the baby, and at last we were ready for a start.—Father harnessed up a double team—we drove the old white mare then, and the gals and all was having a good time, going to see Mary Ann married; but somehow I couldn't get over the shirt! 'Twant the shirt so much; but to have anything spirited away from under my face and eyes so, 'twas provokin'!

"What ye thinking about, mother?" says Sophrony; "what makes you look so sober?" says she.
"I'm pestered to death, thinking about that ere shirt. One of you must have took it, I am certain,"

'Now, ma," savs Sophrony, "you needn't say that," and as I'd laid onto her a good many times, she was beginning to get vexed, and so we had it back and forth, and all about that baby's shirt, till we got to the wedding.

Seeing company kinder put it out of my mind. and I was getting good natured again, though I could not help saying to myself every few minutes, "what could have become of that shirt?" till at last they stood up to be married, and I forgot all about it.

Mary Ann was a real modest creature, and was nor'n half frightened to death when she came into the room with Stephen, and the minister told them to fine hands. She first gave her left hand to Ste-phen. "Your other hand," says the minister; and poor Steve, he was so bashful, too, he didn't know what he was about; he thought 'twas his mistake and that the minister meant him, so he gave Mary Ann his left hand. That wouldn't do, any way, a left-handed marriage all around; but by this time they didn't know what they were about, and Mary Ann joined her right hand to his left, then her left with his right, then both their hands again, until I was all of a fidget, and thought they never would get fixed.

Mary Ann looked as red as a turkey, and, to make matters worse, she began to cough to turn it off, I suppose, and called for a glass of water. The minister had just been drinking, and the tumbler stood right here, and I was so nervous, and in such a hurry to see it all over with, I ketched up the tumbler and run with it to her for I thought to goodness she was going to faint. She undertook to drink—I don't know how it happened, but the tumbler slipped, and gracious me, if between us we didn't spill the water all over the collar and dress I was dreadfully flustered, for I thought it loo

I was dreadfully flustered, for I thought it looked as tho' it was my fault, and the first thing I did was to out with my handkerchief and give it to Mary Ann; it was nicely done up, and she took it. "And Mary Ann and Stephen—were they married after all?"

"Dear me, yes," said Mrs. Jones, "and it turned out to be the gayest wedding that I ever attended."
"And the baby's shirt, Mrs. Jones?"
"La me," said Mrs. Jones, "how young folks do

THE KENTUCKY TRAGEDY .- The attempted murder of Col. Price and his son by a man named Gay has created no little excitement in the vicinity of Winchester, Ky., where it occurred. The cause of the attack we find in the Cleveland Leader, as fol-

Gay supposed himself and family to be wronged by allusions made in a sketch written by Mrs. Price and published in the Ohio (Cleveland) Farmer. The publication alluded to is entitled "Life Sketches of Heart Histories," and, without referring in plain terms to the Gay family, is, nevertheless supposed to be founded on incidents in their lives, and truthfully portrays their characters. The history given in this sketch is of two persons—a man and woman—the latter a member of one of the first families of Virginia, the former a dissipated gambler and speculator. While on a journey from home, the girl became acquainted with this fellow, acquaintgirl became acquainted with this fellow, acquaintance ripened into a deeper feeling on her part, and he, learning that she was possessed of wealth, professed tender feelings for her, and they were married, of course, and removed to Kentucky. The father of the girl delayed handing over to his daughter's husband her marriage portion—the "bankrupt son-in-law" showed his true colors, and the girl found to her unavailing sorrow that she had "fallen the victim of avarice." Then followed a long course of ill-treatment from her husband which she bore until "rationer ceased to be a virtue." when she fled until "patience ceased to be a virtue," when she fled to her father's in Virginia. The story is only toler-ably well written, but evinces a good deal of severity

Gay conceived this to be intended to apply to him as doubtless it was, and, prompted by a fiendish spirit of revenge, he met the husband and son of the writer of the story and perpetrated the atrocity referred to.

ESTABLISHING AN HEIR .- P- K-, late Probate Judge of a neighboring county, was waited upon one warm afternoon by a lauxom matron with a child in her arms, whose business. was, as she said, "of a Probate nature." Mr., K. being a poa child in her arms, whose business, was, as she said, "of a Probate nature." Mr., K. being a polite man, intimated his readiness to learn her wishes. "Now," said she, hushing her baby, and squaring herself for a regular talk, "you see, Judge, my husband was a forehanded man, and left a good farm, well stocked, and just because I am a lone woman in the world, his relations are going to throw me out of all but my third. Now Lawyer—told me, some time ago, that if there was an heir, he would take it all, and I should be his guardian." "How long since your husband died?" asked the Judge. "About thirteen months," was the reply—"and how old is the child?"—"four weeks," was the answer. "I am afraid this case is beyond my jurisdiction," said the Judge; "you had better go back to 'Squire—"" "But," said the woman, "if your Probate Court can't establish an heir, what is it good for?" The woman left the Judge everpowered by the stunning sensation produced by this conviction.—Detroit Advertiser.

An old friend says: "For ten years I have ught my stationery, and school books, such as First, Second, Third, and Fourth Readers, grammars and dictionaries, primers and spellers, arithmetics and histories, my blank memorandum and pass books, copy and ciphering books, letter, cap, and note paper, business and note envelops, slates and slate pencils, playing cards and bonnet boards, ink and inkstands, steel pens and pen-holders of C. Hagan & Co., 507 Main street, between Third and Fourth." It's the place to get your money back.
Uniform low prices, excelled by no other house. Quantities sold to suit purchasers and every satisfaction guarantied and rendered to customers. Grocery, confectionery, and drug houses, who buy to sell again, will consult their own interest by giving Hagan & Co. a call.

F. Yeiser & Co., Fourth street, under the National Hotel, are new selling their rich and fashionable jewelry, fine watches, and diamonds at cost and 10 per cent. It is conceded by all that there has never been in the city a richer and more fashionable stock of jewelry than theirs; therefore purchasers will do well to examine their stock before buying elsewhere.

We would invite the special attention of per sons, especially ladies, in want of the richest and newest styles of fancy dress goods and the best brands of staple goods to the stock at the store of G. B. Tabb, corner Fourth and Market streets. At this house can be found styles of goods not to be found in any other house in the market, which in point of beauty and elegance cannot be excelled. Ladies visiting our city will find it greatly to their advantage to give this house a call and examine the various kinds of goods before making their purchases. His stock of silk and lace mantillas is the largest in the city, embracing a variety of new and desirable styles. His stock of silks, berege and grenadine robes, embroideries, and lace goods cannot be excelled by any Western house. He has also a large and well selected stock of cottonades, heavy cotton drills, plaid cottons, osnaburgs, &c., for servants. Call and examine the stock of this house before you make your purchases, and we feel sure in saying that you will be convinced that this is the house to buy good and cheap goods.

TRY IT AND SEE .- If there is any person in the whole range of our paper who has never had occasion to test the virtue of Porter's Oriental Life Liniment, he should immediately purchase a twentyfive cent bottle and be convinced of its utility. For the cure of Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Sprains, Old Sores, Tetter, Rheumatism, &c., it is the most popular remedy now in use, and is equally popular in diseases of horses. For the cure of Sweeny, Scratches, Stiff Joints, Cuts, Mogs, Swellings, &c., it is unrivaled.

The Oriental Life Liniment is put up in three different sized bottles and sold at twenty-five, fifty cents, and one dollar per bottle. Principal depot, 96 Third street, Louisville, Ky., and sold by dealers everywhere. m28 i&bd&w

NATIONAL TRUNK EMPORIUM.—We were astonished yesterday in droppig down into the establishment of Mr. J. H. McLeary, corner of Fourth and Main streets, to find that he carried on such an extensive business, and had so great and beautiful and cheap a variety of trunks and other articles necessary for travelers. We were astonished at the extent of his manufactory. He employs about thirty hands and makes all of his articles of the best and most durable material. He has also on Tenth street a large box factory. Mr. McLeary is a clever, goahead, enterprising man, and we are not surprised that he is succeeding so well in his business. He understands it very thoroughly.

GREAT ATTRACTION-Concert, Fruit, and Flowers.-To-night Mozart Hall will be again crowded by the lovers of things beautiful and charming, as the ladies, in connection with all the previous attractions, have added a rich treat in the acceptance of a kind offer made by several well-known amateur singers, who will give a grand concert during the evening. This will fill the Hall when it is known that all this delightful entertainment is given for the same nominal entrance fee. The Hall will be open all this day to visitors.

I have been greatly benefited by his treatment, and I think that in a short time I will be entirely cured by the same." Hear and read this:

"De Kalb Co., Ind., Feb. 12, 1857.—I had been afflicted for ten years, had spent five thousand dollats with the most eminent physicians of New York in trying to be cured. My blood was poisoned from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. But as this is an extraordinary case we will give you it also: "Pulaski Co., Ind., 1857.—For twenty years I had, by the effects of exposure, been deprived of my hearing, and in five years afterwards lost my speech. By the skill of Dr. Jones, and by a very simple treatment too, he has restored my hearing, and my speech has come to me as before.

TO CONSUMPTIVE INVALIDS. DR. FLOWER.

GRADUATE of the City University of New York, asterian Institute, and Hospital Physician, London, England, has taken rooms on Fifth street, five doors from the Kentucky School of Medicine, between Green and Walnut, Louisville, Ky., where he may be consulted daily for Consumption, Asthma, Loss of Voice, Bronchitts, Chronic Cough, and Fulmonary Irritation, also for Dyspepsia and Female Complaints, and other affections connected with or predisposing to Consumption, till June 20th, 1857.

DE. FLOWER wishes it distinctly understood, that, although he considers Consumption a curable disease, and reats it as such, he does not pretend to cure those who have neither lungs nor constitution left. He would also add that he is accustomed to tell those applying their real situation and none need apply who are unwilling to learn the truth, A curative treatment will of course only be undertaken in cases where there seems some chance of remedy. Where there is none, the treatment must be merely palliative.

The treatment employed is the breathing of Medicated Vapors into the Lungs, thus producing an action at the very seat of diseases, combined with constitution of remedicated vapors into the Lungs, thus producing an action remedies. As Dr. F.'s stay is limited, all who intend to consult him should do so at once. For the last five years Dr. F. has devoted by entire time to the treatment of of the above diseases.

every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

STRICTURES of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

SEMINAL WEAKNESSE.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

PUBLIC SPEAKING. - HON. HUMPHREY MAR-SHALL WILL ADDRESS HIS FELLOW-CITIZENS AT THE COURT-HOUSE THIS EVENING AT 8 O'CLOCK.

Police Proceedings - Saturday, June 13th. John Russell, drunk and abusing his family. Discharged.

Jane Burke had a small attack of her old disease-intoxication. Discharged.

Frederick Keck, a hack-driver, was held to bail in $300 for six months on the complaint of Elizabeth Steele. M. Heisel bail.

Evening before last the body of a man was found on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad naked, headless, and deprived of one foot. The body was apparently that of a man about 5 feet 10 inches high, remarkably well proportioned, and was bleached very white by the pelting of a heavy rain storm.

DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH AND GERMAN AND GERMAN AND ENGLISH LANGUAGES .- This work, published weekly by John Weik, Philadelphia, at 25 cents per number, is Grieb's edition, revised and enlarged by Prof. Oehlschlaeger. To the student as well as for reference it must prove very useful, and is in fact the most complete work of the kind we have ever seen. The work will be completed in 24 numbers. Mr. B. Hund, corner of Market and Preston streets, is the sole agent for it in this city.

THE STEAM FIRE ENGINE. - This beautiful machine is now "at home" on Sixth street, and in the most perfect order It it under the charge of one of Mr. Latta's deputies, who keeps it in the most perfect and admirable condition. The brass, steel, iron, and all appurtenances are kept in beautiful style, being thoroughly and elegantly polished.

The Eclipse Engine will be taken to the river this afternoon to throw water for the purpose of filling one of the public cisterns.

We are indebted to the Eclipse for favors. The James Montgomery has telegraphed from Memphis that she will arrive on Monday night and return to New Orleans on Tuesday.

VISITING FIREMEN .- We learn that the Invincible Fire Company of Indianapolis intend making a visit to Madison and this city on the 17th and 18th of this month, to join with the fire companies in a social reunion, and see which have the best machines for throwing water. They will all be en squirte on the same day, and will, doubtless, have a "good time" in proving the merits of their engines. Our Ohio river firemen will have to do some good throwing if they send their jets of water further than has been thrown by the Invincible "boys" of the chief Hoosier city. We understand that arrangements are being made to give these visiting firemen that which the world cannot equal-a Kentucky welcome.

Martinea has engaged Mozart Hall for Friday night next.

Lieutenant Eugene Crittenden, son of our distinguished Senator, has been detailed upon an expedition against the Cheyenne Indians.

MANNY'S MOWER .- We call attention to the advertisement announcing another triumph achieved by this implement.

MURDER IN MISSOURI .- A brutal murder was committed in Dent county, Missouri, a few days since, by Henry Hicks, upon the person of a man named Cornelius Mills. Hicks is aged about 61 years, and his victim has a large family. It seems that Mills was returning from a sale in the neighborhood, and was passing Hicks' house, when the latter ordered him not to come along the road, but to leave it and go around that point. Mills asked "why?" three several times. Hicks told him if he did not obey him he would give him the contents of his gun, and shot him down. As Mills fell he snapped his gun at Hicks. Mills' residence was half a mile from that of Hicks, and his family were immediately informed of what had happened, and were present at his death, which occurred a short time after they reached him. Hicks was secured and lodged in jail for trial. We are glad to learn that the new steamboat Southwester, built here for the Missouri and Boonville Steamboat Company, has been furnished with china and glassware, also cutlery, silver-plated goods, &c., by the extensive importing house of Messrs. A. Jaeger & Co., Nos. 119 and 121 Fourth street. Mozart Hall. We advise steamboat captains, hotel-keepers, and families to give this extensive importing house a call before making their selections elsewhere, as their stock is complete and their prices very low for first quality of goods, imported by them direct from the best manufactories of Europe. june 13

WASHINGTON, June 12. Washington, June 12.

Utah affairs to-day occupied the atteation of the Cabinet. The arrival of the Hon. Matchett, a trader probably as well known as any man in Western Pennsylvania, states as follows: "I met with a farmer in Armstrong county who was reduced by Dyspepsia to a mere skeleton; I persuaded him to buy a bottle of Bærhave's Holland Bitters, believing it would cure him. DIED,

On the 10th inst., DANIEL S. LYBARGER, in the 44th year of his ago. Bedford, Pa., and New Orleans papers copy.

[For the Louisville Journal.]

MESSRS. EDITORS: Your correspondent "I" has been induced to read Dr. Judd's Review. The consequence is, two very important admissions on his part; First, that Dr. Judd's standing, like Dr. Mackay's, was fair up to the time of his difficulty with the Secretary of the Bible Union. Second, that in the translation of a certain class of words (including baptize and other controverted terms) the Bible Union has actually so far departed from its solemn pledge as to prescribe one rule to Immersionist Revisers, and another to non-Immersionist

This latter admission is made so evasively, so subjunctively, so ambiguously, as at once to reveal the thorough character of the dodger, and the impracticableness of the difficulty which he could not dodge. We shall number these admissions, and lay them by for future use. Their importance will appear in quest of other admissions.

A single inquiry shall suffice at this time. Did the Bible Union engage, and sloes she still retain in her service as a reviser of the Holy Scriptures, a scholar who could and did, in sober discourse, write for English the words "masculinity," "femininity," "objectional," &c.?—the same who rendered the middle clause of 2 Tim. 4:2, "be on hand conveniently and inconveniently?" A distinct answer to the above question is called for.

P. S. It may be well enough sometimes to fol-

P. S. It may be well enough sometimes to follow our Revision friend a little in his rambles. This, however, will not often be necessary, as his readers will soon get the hang of him. It grieves our friend greatly that the notice of Dr. Judd's Review was published anonymously. Now I do not wait to inquire whether such notices are usually anonymous—a better answer is at hand. Not long since an anonymous report of a Revision speech by Dr Everts was published with an express endorsement of the truthfulness of the speech, in which Dr. E. was made to say in substance, that the opponents of Revision were prompted, not by any love for the truth, but only by the meanest and basest motives that govern the human heart. Now, Messrs. Editors, I demand of your correspondent "I" to say distinctly if he has never seen or heard anything of this anonymons revisionist notice of Dr. Everts's speech? Just here it is proper to add, what the public does not know, but ought to know, that Dr. Everts apologized to some of his anti-revisionist friends, complaining that Dr. Bell had done him injustice, and valued him in a felse position by that friends, complaining that Dr. Bell had done him injustice and placed him in a false position by that anonymous netice. I now appeal to every honorable-minded reader, of every party, to glance over the long list of blackguard epithets which my brief anonymous notice of Dr. Judd's Review has called forth, and determine for himself where they belong. I fancy this matter is put to rest.

But a "respectable publisher," it seems, refused to publish my notice of Dr. Judd's Review. All I have to say is that a brief notice of the work in have to say is that a brief notice of the work in question was prepared and offered to each of the two papers, in which the revision discussions have herepapers, in which the revision discussions have heretofore been published. At the one office it was received and published; at the other, it was promptly and courteously received without question or objection of any kind. If the editor afterwards saw reason to change his purpose and withhold it from publication, I have no complaints to make. I have not he remotest suspicion that he intended to make himself a party in any way in the matter. But what does our lucid Revisionist mean when he says that a "respectable publisher" refused to publish the notice. does our lucid Revisionist mean when he says that a "respectable publisher" refused to publish the notice, &c? Does he mean to disparage the notice and its author by exalting the respectability of the pub-lisher who refused it over that of the publisher who received and published it? This is in fact a poor, meaningless flourish, a match to many others ema-rating from the says source, intended for those who meaningless flourish, a match to many others emanating from the same source, intended for those who read only for the sound of the words. If it has any meaning it is certainly a reflection on the Journal. But we are told that Dr. Judd contended for a half cent, and the inference intended is that he is a bad man. This story, from the questionable shape in which it comes, and the questionable source from which it comes, is most likely a sheer fabrication. But let it be a fact, and what then? The boatman may have been an enemy, or set on by an enemy may have been an enemy, or set on by an enemy— the half cent may, under the circumstances, have come to represent a principle, and, therefore, possess a value commensurate with that principle—be worth— contending for and if preserved. a value commensurate with that principle—be worth ontending for, and, if necessary, dying for, just as the penny tax in the case of our revolutionary fathers, or the forbidden fruit in Paradise; or it may be that Dr. Judd is whimsically exact in trifles (as great and good men have often been known to be), and nobly generous in large sums. But Dr. Judd has a rich father-in-law, and yet has sued the congregation which he formerly served. My observation is that rich fathers-in-law like remarkably well to see their poor sons-in-law able and willing to maintain themrich fathers-in-law like remarkably well to see their poor sons-in-law able and willing to maintain themselves, and they are right. As to a congregation that promises to support a minister, and, being able, fails to do so—if he chooses to enforce his claim, I say, hands off, let him put them through. A dishonest man hands off, let him put them through. A dishonest man is bad enough; addishonest congregation is too bad. It seems that a certain person sent a very rude reply to an invitation of the late Revision Association in this city. I happen, Messrs. Editors, to be acquainted with the person alluded to, and I have his authority for saying, that if your correspondent will publish the invitation and the reply and leave them to make their own impressions, without note or comment, he on his part will keep silent with regard to them—he is not particular however.

Your correspondent closes with threats as to what he will do, thus and so—we shall see.
